Notes/Reminders

Because some courses are offered every other year, the timing of certain courses in the plan may vary depending on when the student begins the program. For instance, ENG 202: Introduction to Literary Studies is offered in the spring semester of odd years. If a student's first academic year has a spring semester in an even year, an institutional requirement should be planned instead of ENG 202. The student may then take ENG 202 in spring of the second year. Selected course rotations are listed below:

ENG 202: Spring semester, odd years
ENG 332: Spring semester, even years
ENG 351: Fall semester, even years
ENG 371: Spring semester, odd years
COM 208: Spring semester, even years

Because 400-level literature courses are offered once every three years, students should take the first course offered in the curriculum category as they come on the rotation. For example, if ENG 404 is offered in the sophomore year, the student should take that course instead of waiting for the other courses in that category to come up in the junior year. In planning course schedules, it is more helpful to think of the 400-level courses in the context of its curricular category rather than the course alone.
